Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, USN
Chief of Naval Operations
Department of the Navy
Washington, D. C. 20350

Dear Admiral Moorer:

The participants in CIA's twenty-second Midcareer Executive Development Course have recently returned from their field trip and report that they were very impressed with the briefings and tours at the Polaris Missile Facilities at Charleston, South Carolina. In fact, they considered this visit the highlight of the trip. A "well done" for all the officers and men involved.

Thanks to the Commanding Officers of the Polaris Missile Facility, ATLANTIC; the Cooper River Replacement Site; Submarine Squadron Eighteen; and the U.S.S. HUNLEY, the class obtained a good understanding of the support and operational activities of the Polaris fleet and the vital contributions of this force to our national defense posture.

I appreciate your assistance in making the visit possible and hope that the Agency will be able to include the Charleston tour in future Midcareer field trips.

Sincerely,

R. E. Cushman, Jr.
